Cymdeithas Tai Eryri's main aim is to provide social housing for local people, and the Community Project Team within this body is active in promoting communities with special emphasis on combating poverty and encouraging sustainability.

The team's whole principle is to work from the bottom up with tenants and local residents, so that they can influence what happens around them. The team strives to help people to realise their hopes, and by doing this hopes to gain resources and assets that belong to the community managing them.

The unit employs 6 members of staff, and the work touches on raising the confidence and the skill level of disadvantaged people, and also on developing community ideas that then offer employment opportunities etc.

Cymdeithas Tai Eryri has an established aim to promote sustainable development in their corporate plan, is working on projects to lessen energy use, and is also looking at building green houses.

Tips for others: Don't accept "No" for an answer.

Very little under the sun is new.

There is nothing better than learning from others doing the same thing.
