Mantell Gwynedd is an independent charity which supports and promotes voluntary and community groups as well as developing voluntary action in Gwynedd.

This is achieved by:

- Providing support for groups and encouraging good practice
- Helping voluntary and community groups to work together
- Promoting effective links and partnerships with the statutory and private sectors
- Developing initiatives to meet the needs and stimulate group participation.

To ensure genuine commitment and effective outcomes of organisational aims, the Management Board is made up of representatives from local voluntary and community groups. Regular information sessions and seminars are held, and people may contact Mantell Gwynedd for support on any matter relating to their organisation. This includes advice on charity matters, constitutions, funding, management issues and training.

By encouraging people to take part in community activity, knowledge and skills are gained, and those involved become more inspired and confident to do things for themselves and thereby make their ventures more self-sufficient.

Apart from practical measures such as the recycling of waste paper and office equipment, sustainability is at the root of all sessions and training offered by Mantell Gwynedd throughout the county. Of further importance is creating easier access to information.
